

SOUTH CAROLINA COUNCIL FOR THE SOCIAL STUDIES

Annual Conference

October 28-29, 2023

Greenville, SC

*“Designed to Impress the Revolution
on the Minds of Youth”*

Stacia Smith, Director of Education,
American Revolution Institute, Washington, DC

ssmith@societyofthecincinnati

Kahoot!

- Home
- Discover
- Library
- Reports
- Groups
- Marketplace

The Society of the Cincinnati

39 plays · 351 players

Start

Assign

Play solo

Do you know the history of the Society of the Cincinnati?

What's new?

*What is
The Society of the Cincinnati?*

<https://create.kahoot.it/details/b93764c0-d9de-4d55-9bb7-b9c5d5a965d5>

THE SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI (1783)

“To perpetuate therefore, as well the remembrance of this vast event, as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger, and in many instances cemented by the blood of the parties...”

The American Revolution...

- ★ secured our national independence,
- ★ established our republic,
- ★ created our national identity,
- ★ and articulated our highest ideals—liberty, equality, civic responsibility and natural and civil rights.

THE
PATRIOT'S
MONITOR,

FOR
NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

DESIGNED TO IMPRESS AND PERPETUATE THE
FIRST PRINCIPLES OF THE REVOLUTION
ON THE MINDS OF YOUTH;

TOGETHER WITH SOME
PIECES IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING.

ADAPTED FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS.

THE
PATRIOT'S
MONITOR,

FOR
NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

DESIGNED TO IMPRESS AND PERPETUATE THE
FIRST PRINCIPLES OF THE REVOLUTION
ON THE MINDS OF YOUTH;

TOGETHER WITH SOME
PIECES IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING.

ADAPTED FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS.

BY IGNATIUS THOMSON.

Only take heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life. And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

MOSES.

RANDOLPH, VER.
PRINTED BY SERENO WRIGHT.

1810.

VERMONT, to wit:

On the fourth day of May, in the dependence of the United States of America, of said district, hath deposited in this office a certain right whereof he claims as author, to wit: "The Patriotic Monitor, for to impress and perpetuate the first on the minds of youth; together with a certain and interesting. Adapted for J. M. Thomson." In conformity with the United States, entitled "An act relating to the securing the copies of maps, charts and proprietors of such copies during the times therein mentioned thereof to the arts of designing, engraving and other prints."

JESSE GOVE,
Clerk of the district of Vermont.
JESSE GOVE, Clerk.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

IN CONGRESS, JULY FOURTH, ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUN-DRED AND SEVENTY-SIX. [JULY 4, 1776.]

1. A DECLARATION by the representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled.
2. When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.
3. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed;
4. That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness.
5. Prudence, indeed, will dictate, that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed.
6. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is

www.AmericanRevolutionInstitute.org

A N

ORATION,

DELIVERED AT POMFRET,

JULY 4th, 1809 :

Commemorating the Day that gave our Nation Birth:

BY IGNATIUS THOMSON.

Without the restraint of law, liberty could not exist in a State of Society.—
The law itself is often not sufficiently coercive to keep men within due bounds ; on which account it has been found necessary, in all republics, to confide in a number of citizens, who have defined well of their country, or are otherwise worthy to serve it.

ZIMMERMANN.

WINDSOR :

PRINTED BY FARNSWORTH & CHURCHILL,

[1809]

AN ORATION, &c.

FELLOW CITIZENS,

ONCE more, we are permitted to see a day open on us, which brings to our minds the grateful remembrance of that, which gave us a name among the nations of the earth ; a day which put into our hands many invaluable privileges, not enjoyed by any of the civilized nations on this habitable globe, and which announced us a FREE and INDEPENDENT PEOPLE.

ONCE more, has the great Ruler of Nations permitted us (though surrounded by the corrupting influence of foreign powers, in a day of wonders, and the restless spirits of ambitious men to subvert the inestimable rights of the people,) to meet together, and hail this day, as citizens of a free country ; inheritors of those liberties, which the valor of our fathers won.

A day like this, leads us to contemplate, as the price of that liberty we enjoy, the cause from whence it originated, the spirit which the people possessed, and the sacrifices they were called to make to procure it. Without these, we should be illly prepared to meet this anniversary ; enter into the feelings of that eventful day, or appreciate the worth of the great object of our rejoicing.

AIDED by these, we bring to remembrance a period that is past, when our ancestors, driven by persecution from their native land, sought a residence on this continent. Here they acknowledged themselves the subjects of Britain, and in so doing, they secured to their

5002329

The
NEW-ENGLAND
PRIMER

A REPRINT OF THE EARLIEST KNOWN
EDITION, WITH MANY FACSIMILES AND REPRODUCTIONS, AND AN HISTORICAL IN-TRODUCTION

Edited by PAUL LEICESTER FORD

NEW YORK
Dodd, Mead and Company
M dccc xc ix
1899

Give Ear my Echildren to my words whom God hath dearly bought,
Law up his Laws within your Hearts,
and Print them in your Thoughts.
I leave you here a little Book,
for you to look upon,
That you may see your Fathers Face,
when he is Dead and gone.

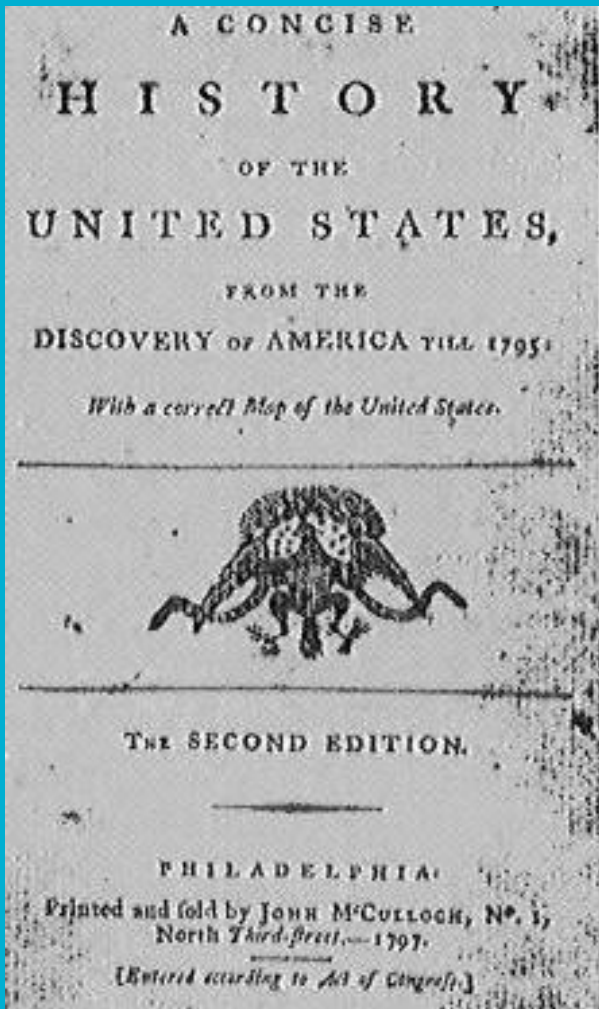

Burning of John Rogers

(From the "New English Tutor" [1702-1714?])

Portrait of George Washington

(From the "New England Primer." Boston: [1789?])

THRUNITE

500 lumens slim flashlight

$29.99 prime

Books > History > World

A concise history of the United States, from the discovery of America till 1795: with a correct map of the United States.

Paperback – June 10, 2010

by John M'Culloch (Author)

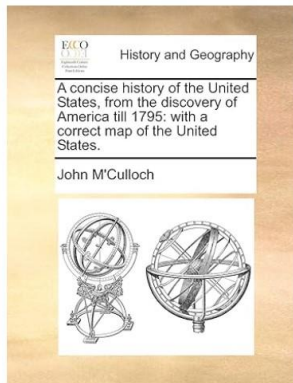

See all formats and editions

Hardcover
$27.95

Paperback
$26.75

4 New from $27.95

4 New from $26.75

The 18th century was a wealth of knowledge, exploration and rapidly growing technology and expanding record-keeping made possible by advances in the printing press. In its determination to preserve the century of revolution, Gale initiated a revolution of its own: digitization of epic proportions to preserve these invaluable works in the largest archive of its kind. Now for the first time these high-quality digital copies of original 18th century manuscripts are available in print, making them highly accessible to libraries, undergraduate students, and independent scholars.

Read more

Length	Language	Publisher	Publication date	Dimensions
--------	----------	-----------	------------------	------------

A
HISTORY
OF THE
UNITED STATES
OF America,

ON A PLAN
ADAPTED TO THE CAPACITY OF YOUTH,
AND
DESIGNED TO AID THE MEMORY
BY SYSTEMATICK ARRANGEMENT AND INTERESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

ILLUSTRATED BY ENGRAVINGS.

BY REV. CHARLES A. GOODRICH.

SECOND EDITION

NEW-YORK :

PUBLISHED BY COLLINS & CO.
J. & J. HARPER, PRINTERS.

1825.

UNITED STATES.

Period V.

DISTINGUISHED FOR THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

Battle of Lexington.

Extending from the commencement of hostilities by Great Britain against the American colonies, in the battle of Lexington, 1775, to the disbanding of the American Army at West Point, 1783.

Section I. On the 19th of April, 1775, was shed at Lexington, Massachusetts, the first blood in the war of the revolution—a war, which terminated in the separation

UNITED STATES.

Period VII.

DISTINGUISHED BY WASHINGTON'S ADMINISTRATION.

George Washington.

Extending from the inauguration of President Washington, 1789, to the inauguration of John Adams, as president of the United States, 1797.

Section I. On the 30th of April, 1789, in the presence of the first Federal Constitution, and before an immense number of spectators, was inducted into the office of President of the United States, by taking the oath of office.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA
DEPARTMENT OF FREE SCHOOLS
ELEMENTARY DIPLOMA TEST

CIVICS

April 9-10, 1931

Thursday, 3:00-4:00 P. M.

- I. What constitutes a community? Write about a page.
- II. Show how good home life tends to decrease the need of government.
- III. Make a list of the powers of the President of the United States as contained in the Constitution.
- IV. What does the family do for the education of the children that the school cannot do? What does the school do that the family cannot?
- V. Distinguish between poverty and pauperism and discuss the most important causes of pauperism.
- VI. State the difference between a direct tax and an indirect tax.

History.

1. Who first discovered the following places.—Florida, Pacific Ocean, Miss River, St Lawrence River?
2. Sketch briefly Sir Walter Rawleigh, Peter Stuyvesant.
3. By whom were the following settled:—Ga., Md., Mass., R. I., Fla
4. During what wars were the following battles fought:—Brandywine, Great Meadows, Lundy's Lane, Antietam, Buena Vista.
5. Describe the battle of Quebec.
6. Give the cause of the war of 1812 and name an important battle fought during that war.
7. Name 2 presidents who have died in office: three who were assassinated.
8. Name the last battle of the Civil War; War of 1812; French and Indian War. and the commanders in each battle.
9. What president was impeached, and on what charge?
10. Who invented the following.—Magnetic, Telegraph, Cotton Gin, Sewing Machine, Telephone, Phonograph.

William Foster,
Ed C Tyler,
J. E. Magruder,
F T Harned,
Ora L. Roby,

Bullitt County Board of Education.

Chas. G. Bridwell, Truant Officer.

THE
AMERICAN
REVOLUTION
INSTITUTE
of The Society of the Cincinnati

What essential primary source readings “to impress and perpetuate the first principles of the Revolution on the minds of youth” would you include in a 2023 collection for South Carolina students?

Consider the Revolution’s 250-year legacy, and its constructive achievements: our independence, republic, national identity and highest ideals...

https://cdm16923.contentdm.oclc.org/digital/collection/p16923_coll1/id/44

A MAP
of those parts of
Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina & Georgia, which were the scenes of the most important Operations
of the
SOUTHERN ARMIES.

THE
AMERICAN REVOLUTION
INSTITUTE

at The Center of the American

C O N T E N T S.

DECLARATION of independence, - - -	5
Gen. Washington's appointment and acceptance of the command of the American army, - - -	7
Gen. Washington's address to the army, - - -	8
Gen. Washington's resignation of the command of the army, - - -	12
Gen. Washington's circular letter to the governors, - - -	13
Constitution of the United States, - - -	25
Resolve of convention, - - -	37
Letter of convention, - - -	38
Resolve of congress, - - -	40
Amendments of the constitution, - - -	40
President Washington's inaugural speech, - - -	44
President Washington's address to the people of the U. States, - - -	48
Gen. Washington's acceptance of the command of the army under president Adams, - - -	66
Extract from Gen. Lee's oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	68
Extract from the condolence of the senate of the U. States, - - -	69
Extract from Dr. Wharton's sermon on the death of Gen. W. - - -	69
Extract from Mr. Ames' oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	73
President Adams' message to congress on soliciting Mrs. Washington's assent to the mode of interring the remains of Gen. W. - - -	77
Mrs. Washington's letter, - - -	78
Reflections on the liberties of the United States, - - -	78
Extract from gov. Tomkins' speech on punishments for crimes, - - -	82
President Jefferson's inaugural speech, - - -	85
President Madison's inaugural speech, - - -	89
On education in New-England, - - -	93
On religious toleration, - - -	94
On love to God - - -	95
A sure rule in the conduct of life, - - -	98
A parent's reflections on his duty, - - -	98
A child's reflections on his duty, - - -	103
A youth's reflections on his duty, - - -	106
The effects of parental partiality, - - -	110
Filial and brotherly duty exemplified, - - -	119
An historical sketch, from the time of Abraham, to the American revolution, - - -	128
Constitution of New-Hampshire, - - -	172
Extract from president Adams' inaugural speech, - - -	199

C O N T E N T S.

DECLARATION of independence, - - -	3
Gen. Washington's appointment and acceptance of the command of the American army, - - -	7
Gen. Washington's address to the army, - - -	8
Gen. Washington's resignation of the command of the army, - - -	12
Gen. Washington's circular letter to the governors, - - -	13
Constitution of the United States, - - -	25
Resolve of convention, - - -	37
Letter of convention, - - -	38
Resolve of congress, - - -	40
Amendments of the constitution, - - -	40
President Washington's inaugural speech, - - -	44
President Washington's address to the people of the U. States, - - -	48
Gen. Washington's acceptance of the command of the army under president Adams, - - -	66
Extract from Gen. Lee's oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	68
Extract from the condolence of the senate of the U. States, - - -	69
Extract from Dr. Wharton's sermon on the death of Gen. W. - - -	69
Extract from Mr. Ames' oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	73
President Adams' message to congress on soliciting Mrs. Washington's assent to the mode of interring the remains of Gen. W. - - -	77
Mrs. Washington's letter, - - -	78

Engraved for BARNARD's New Complete & Authentic HISTORY of ENGLAND.

The Manner in which the American Colonies Declared themselves
INDEPENDANT of the King of ENGLAND, throughout the different Provinces, on July 4, 1776.

The Declaration of Independence [July 4, 1776]

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

THE love of power is so universally predominant in the human breast, that many, who have appeared in the beginning of public life to have the good of their country at heart, and have execrated the least appearance of usurpation, no sooner than they could possess the power, have grasped it with the greatest eagerness. So universally has this propensity of the heart prevailed, that Washington, as Commander, had but one instance before him in the whole history of man, for an example.

CINCINNATUS, in the days of Roman freedom, felt the love of his country on his heart, more than the love of dominion : Like him Washington could retire from the field of battle to domestic enjoyments, when his country no longer needed his service. What sentiments worthy of imitation did Washington express in his address to the army, and in resigning his power to that department from whence it originated ! What deference to the constituted authorities ! What self-denial ! What patriotism he manifested ! With what cheerfulness has he taught us, that every person to whom is committed public trust, should resign when the good of his country requires it. In all these, Washington completely imitated his copy from the Roman patriot : But though the copy ends here, the character of Washington was not finished.

THE love of power is so universally predominant in the human breast, that many, who have appeared in the beginning of public life to have the good of their country at heart, and have execrated the least appearance of usurpation, no sooner than they could possess the power, have grasped it with the greatest eagerness. So universally has this propensity of the heart prevailed, that Washington, as Commander, had but one instance before him in the whole history of man, for an example.

CINCINNATUS, in the days of Roman freedom, felt the love of his country on his heart, more than the love of dominion : Like him Washington could retire from the field of battle to domestic enjoyments, when his country no longer needed his service. What sentiments worthy of imitation did Washington express in his address to the army, and in resigning his power to that department from whence it originated ! What deference to the constituted authorities ! What self-denial ! What patriotism he manifested ! With what cheerfulness has he taught us, that every person to whom is committed public trust, should resign when the good of his country requires it. In all these, Washington completely imitated his copy from the Roman patriot : But though the copy ends here, the character of Washington was not finished.

General Washington's Appointment and Acceptance of the Command of the American Army [June 16, 1775]

Though I am truly sensible of the high honor done me in this appointment, yet I feel great distress from the consciousness, that my abilities and military experience may not be equal to the extensive and important trust. However, as the Congress desire it, I will enter upon the momentous duty, and exert every power I possess in their service, and for the support of the glorious cause.

General Washington's Address to the Army [November 2, 1783]

Every American Officer and Soldier must now console himself for any unpleasant circumstances which may have occurred, by a recollection of the uncommon scenes in which he has been called to act no inglorious part; and the astonishing Events of which he has been a witness—Events which have seldom, if ever before, taken place on the stage of human action, nor can they probably ever happen again.

General Washington's Resignation of Command of the Army [December 24, 1783]

Having finished the work assigned to me, I retire from the great theatre of action; and, bidding an affectionate farewell to this august body, under whose orders I have long acted, I here offer my commission, and take my leave of all the employments of public life.

A
Circular Letter,
FROM
HIS EXCELLENCY
George Washington,
COMMANDER IN CHIEF
OF THE
ARMIES OF THE
UNITED STATES
OF
AMERICA;

Addressed to the GOVERNORS OF the several STATES, on his resigning the Command of the Army, and retiring from public Business.

PHILADELPHIA:
Printed by Robert Smith, jun.
back of the Fountain Inn, between Second and Third streets.

1783

General Washington's Circular Letter to the Governors of the Several States
[June 18, 1783]

There are four things which I humbly conceive are essential to the well being, I may even venture to say the existence, of the United States as an independent power:

- 1st. An indissoluble Union of the States under one Federal Head.*
- 2dly. A sacred regard to Public Justice.*
- 3dly. The adoption of a proper Peace Establishment, and*
- 4thly. The prevalence of that pacific and friendly Disposition, among the People of the United States, which will induce them to forget their local prejudices and policies, to make those mutual concessions and policies which are requisite to the general prosperity, and in some instances, to sacrifice their individual advantages to the interest of the Community.*

CONTENTS.

DECLARATION of independence, - - -	5
Gen. Washington's appointment and acceptance of the command of the American army, - - -	7
Gen. Washington's address to the army, - - -	8
Gen. Washington's resignation of the command of the army, - - -	12
Gen. Washington's circular letter to the governors, - - -	13
Constitution of the United States, - - -	25
Resolve of convention, - - -	37
Letter of convention, - - -	38
Resolve of congress, - - -	40
Amendments of the constitution, - - -	40
President Washington's inaugural speech, - - -	44
President Washington's address to the people of the U. States, - - -	48
Gen. Washington's acceptance of the command of the army under president Adams, - - -	66
Extract from Gen. Lee's oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	68
Extract from the condolence of the senate of the U. States, - - -	69
Extract from Dr. Wharton's sermon on the death of Gen. W. - - -	69
Extract from Mr. Ames' oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	73
President Adams' message to congress on soliciting Mrs. Washington's assent to the mode of interring the remains of Gen. W. - - -	77
Mrs. Washington's letter, - - -	78
Reflections on the liberties of the United States, - - -	78
Extract from gov. Tomkins' speech on punishments for crimes, - - -	82
President Jefferson's inaugural speech, - - -	85
President Madison's inaugural speech, - - -	89
On education in New-England, - - -	93
On religious toleration, - - -	94
On love to God - - -	95
A sure rule in the conduct of life, - - -	98
A parent's reflections on his duty, - - -	98
A child's reflections on his duty, - - -	103
A youth's reflections on his duty, - - -	106
The effects of parental partiality, - - -	110
Filial and brotherly duty exemplified, - - -	119
An historical sketch, from the time of Abraham, to the American revolution, - - -	128
Constitution of New-Hampshire, - - -	172
Extract from president Adams' inaugural speech, - - -	199

President Washington's inaugural speech, - - -	44
President Washington's address to the people of the U. States, - - -	48
Gen. Washington's acceptance of the command of the army under president Adams, - - -	66
Extract from Gen. Lee's oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	68
Extract from the condolence of the senate of the U. States, - - -	69
Extract from Dr. Wharton's sermon on the death of Gen. W. - - -	69
Extract from Mr. Ames' oration on the death of Gen. W. - - -	73
President Adams' message to congress on soliciting Mrs. Washington's assent to the mode of interring the remains of Gen. W. - - -	77
Mrs. Washington's letter, - - -	78
Reflections on the liberties of the United States, - - -	78
Extract from gov. Tomkins' speech on punishments for crimes, - - -	82
President Jefferson's inaugural speech, - - -	85
President Madison's inaugural speech, - - -	89
On education in New-England, - - -	93
On religious toleration, - - -	94
On love to God - - -	95
A sure rule in the conduct of life, - - -	98
A parent's reflections on his duty, - - -	98
A child's reflections on his duty, - - -	103
A youth's reflections on his duty, - - -	106
The effects of parental partiality, - - -	110
Filial and brotherly duty exemplified, - - -	119
An historical sketch, from the time of Abraham, to the American revolution, - - -	128
Constitution of New-Hampshire, - - -	172
Extract from president Adams' inaugural speech, - - -	199

L2021M89
1810
M

THE PATRIOT'S MONITOR. 93

republic, and to whom we are bound to address our devout gratitude for the past, as well as our fervent supplications and best hopes for the future. JAMES MADISON. Washington, March 4, 1809.

ON EDUCATION IN NEW-ENGLAND.

1. AMONG the customs which are universal among the people, in all parts of the state, one that seems worthy of remark, is, the attention that is paid to the education of children.
2. The aim of the parent, is not so much to have his children acquainted with the liberal arts and sciences; but to have them all taught to read with ease and propriety; to write a plain and legible hand; and to have them acquainted with the rules of arithmetic, so far as shall be necessary to carry on any of the most common and necessary occupations of life.
3. All the children are trained to this kind of knowledge: they are accustomed from their earliest years to read the holy scriptures, the periodical publications, newspapers, and political pamphlets; to form some general acquaintance with the laws of their country, the proceedings of the courts of justice, of the general assembly of the state, and of the congress.
4. Such a kind of education is common and universal in every part of the state: and nothing would be more dishonorable to the parents, or to the children, than to be without it. One of the first things the new settlers attend to, is to procure a schoolmaster to instruct their children in the arts of reading, writing, and arithmetic.
5. No greater misfortune could attend a child, than to arrive at manhood unable to read, write, and keep small accounts: he is viewed as unfit for the common business of the towns and plantations, and in a state greatly inferior to his neighbors. Every consideration joins to prevent so degraded and mortifying a state, by giving to every one the customary education, and advantages.

THE PATRIOT'S MONITOR.

6. This custom was derived from the people of New-England; and has acquired greater force in the new settlements, where the people are apprehensive their children will have less advantages, and of consequence, not appear equal to the children in the older towns.
7. No custom was ever better adapted to private, or public good. Such kind of education and knowledge, is of more advantage to mankind, than all the speculations, disputes, and distinctions, that metaphysics, logic, and scholastic theology, have ever produced.
8. In the plain common good sense, promoted by the one, virtue, utility, freedom, and public happiness, have their foundations. In the useless speculations produced by the other, common sense is lost, folly becomes refined, and the useful branches of knowledge are darkened, and forgot.

ON RELIGIOUS TOLERATION.

1. RELIGION is one of those concerns, which will always have great influence on the state of society. In our original frame and constitution, the benevolent Author of our natures, has made us rational and accountable creatures: accountable to ourselves, to our fellow men, and to our God.
2. These foundations of religion, are so last appe

mation
5. T
which h
ty. TH
ture and that wh
ety, un
univers
6.
can im
may b men m apply
7.
they v
ment
partie
8.
can f heart
on th life.
9.
but
and libe

A
PATRIOT'S
HANDBOOK

Songs, Poems, Stories, and Speeches
Celebrating the Land We Love

Selected and Introduced by
CAROLINE KENNEDY

JUDGE LEARNED HAND
ADDRESS AT "I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY,
CENTRAL PARK, NEW YORK

MAY 21, 1944

Learned Hand (1872-1961) served as a federal judge from 1909 until 1951. Nicknamed the "Tenth Justice of the Supreme Court" for his many influential decisions, Hand became famous as a defender of free speech and liberty in his more than two thousand opinions. Hand's history: His address, often referred to as "The Spirit of Liberty," was noted for its emphasis on tolerance in the midst of wartime.

We have gathered here to affirm a faith, a faith in a common purpose, a common conviction, a common devotion. Some of us have chosen America as the land of our adoption; the rest have come from those who did the same. For this reason we have come right to consider ourselves a picked group, a group of those who had the courage to break from the past and brave the dangers and the loneliness of a strange land.

What was the object that nerved us, or those who went before us, to this distant shore? We sought liberty; freedom from oppression, freedom from want, freedom to be ourselves. This we then sought; this we now believe that we are by way of winning.

What do we mean when we say that first of all we seek liberty? I often wonder whether we do not rest our hopes too much upon constitutions, upon laws and upon courts. These are false hopes; believe me, these are false hopes. Liberty lies in the hearts of men and women; when it dies there, no constitution, no law, no court can save it; no constitution, no law, no court can even do much to help it. While it lives there it needs no constitution, no law, no court to save it.

And what is this liberty which must lie in the hearts of men and women? It is the ruthless, the unbridled will; it is not freedom to do as one likes. That is the ideal of liberty, and leads straight to its overthrow. A society in which men recognize no check upon their freedom soon becomes a society where freedom is the possession of only a savage few; as we have learned to our sorrow.

What, then, is the spirit of liberty? I cannot define it; I can only tell you my own faith. The spirit of liberty is the spirit which is not too sure that it is right; the spirit of liberty is the spirit which seeks to understand the minds of other men and women; the spirit of liberty is the spirit which weighs their interests alongside its own without bias; the spirit of liberty remembers that not even a sparrow falls to earth unheeded.

The spirit of liberty is the spirit of Him who, near two thousand years ago, proclaimed that heaven is his never learned, but has never quite forgotten; that heaven is Kingdon where the least shall be heard and considered side by side with the greatest.

And you... in the spirit of that America for which our young men are at this moment fighting and dying in that spirit of liberty and of America I ask you to rise and pledge your faith in the glorious destiny of our beloved country. I now pledge to you your hands and repeat with me this pledge:

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands—more nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

PHOTO: "I Am an American" Day, Times Square, New York, 1946.

COMPANION VOLUME TO THE
#1 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER
A PATRIOT'S HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

THE PATRIOT'S HISTORY READER

ESSENTIAL DOCUMENTS
FOR EVERY AMERICAN

LARRY SCHWEIKART, DAVE DOUGHERTY,
AND MICHAEL ALLEN

CHAPTER 37

On Social Security, Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1935

In 1932 the Democrats had included planks in their campaign platform for old-age relief and unemployment benefits to offset some of the effects of the Depression. As drafted in 1934 by the President's Committee on Economic Security, payments to retirees and relief for the elderly were to be managed by a new federal program, while unemployment compensation, aid to dependent children, child welfare, public health services, and assistance to the blind would be handled by the states with federal funding. Franklin D. Roosevelt introduced the initiative to Congress in the speech below on January 17, 1935, and Congress voted Social Security into law on August 14, 1935. The new law was soon tested for constitutionality, and unlike the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the National Industrial Recovery Act, and the Railroad Retirement Act, Social Security passed the Court's muster as falling within the purview of the Constitution's general welfare clause (article 1, section 8: "The Congress shall have Power To . . . provide for the . . . general Welfare of the United States . . .").

The program, in which retirees would receive benefits paid for by those still working, was held by the Court as not qualifying as an annuity, and no one paying money into the system earned a right to receive back his paid-in money. The benefit grew to become the largest government benefit program in the world, representing well over 20 percent of the federal budget. Although an accounting fiction of a "trust fund" was set up, every dollar contributed to the Social Security program was immediately put into the general revenue fund and spent by Congress on whatever it desired at the time. Although estimates vary (depending on the definition of payees and recipients), at the time it was instituted Social Security saw between ten and fourteen workers paying into the system for every recipient receiving a check. In 2010, the ratio was about three to one, and within twenty years, some forecasts anticipate that the ratio will be one to three.

Curiously, Social Security coverage was not at first generally extended to women and minorities: about two-thirds of working blacks were not covered as well as almost half of all employed women. Agricultural workers were excluded in the act, and married women usually received benefits only through their husband or because of their children. In selling his program, FDR promised that no worker would ever pay more than 1 percent of his income in Social Security tax. By 2010, self-employed persons would be paying 15.3 percent of their income in "self-employment tax," which covers both Social Security and Medicare. Is this a case of the camel's nose getting in the tent? Is Social Security, as critics suggest, a Ponzi scheme? Why are federal employees and certain other occupations excluded from paying into Social Security? FDR argued for the government system to eventually be supplanted by private accounts, yet that did not happen. What institutional barriers did Roosevelt intentionally or unintentionally create that prevented this private retirement system from developing?

ON SOCIAL SECURITY, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, 1935 493

Message to Congress on Social Security, January 17, 1935

IN ADDRESSING YOU ON JUNE 8, 1934, I SUMMARIZED THE MAIN objectives of our American program. Among these was, and is, the security of the men, women, and children of the nation against certain hazards and vicissitudes of life. This purpose is an essential part of our task. In my annual message to you I promised to submit a definite program of action. This I do in the form of a report to me by a Committee on Economic Security, appointed by me for the purpose of surveying the field and of recommending the basis of legislation.

I am gratified with the work of this committee and of those who have helped it: The Technical Board on Economic Security drawn from various departments of the government, the Advisory Council on Economic Security, consisting of informed and public-spirited private citizens; and a number of other advisory groups, including a committee on actuarial consultants, a medical advisory board, a dental advisory committee, a hospital advisory committee, a public health advisory committee, a child welfare committee, and an advisory committee on employment relief. All of those who participated in this notable task of planning this major legislative proposal are ready and willing, at any time, to consult with and assist in any way the appropriate congressional committees and members, with respect to detailed aspects.

It is my best judgment that this legislation should be brought forward with a minimum of delay. Federal action is necessary to, and conditioned upon, the action of states. Forty-four legislatures are meeting or will meet soon. In order that the necessary state action may be taken promptly it is important that the federal government proceed speedily.

THE
AMERICAN REVOLUTION
INSTITUTE
of The Society of the Cincinnati

H is for Heroes and I for Ideals.
 Heroes remind us of our nation's ideals and how important it is to live up to them.

Some heroes we admire from afar.
 Others are part of our lives every day.

OBJECTS OF REVOLUTION

Teaching Students to Interpret Artifacts as Primary Sources

The aim of Objects of Revolution lesson plans is to teach students how to interpret such artifacts and relate them to the contexts in which they were made and used. The things people made and used are part of the documentary and visual record and offer insights about life in the Revolution.

OBJECTS OF REVOLUTION

MASTER TEACHER LESSONS

Primary Source-Based Content featuring our Museum and Library Collections

A movement to ensure that all Americans understand and appreciate the American Revolution, we have master teachers sharing the constructive achievements of the Revolution with their students. Each year, master teachers in the nation for a week-long seminar to discuss the most important themes to the Revolution using the Institute's rich collection of primary source materials associated with the Revolution—our independence, our republic, our national identity and the high ideals of the American people.

MASTER TEACHER LESSONS

REVOLUTIONARY EXHIBITIONS

Lessons featuring our Library and Museum Collections on Exhibition at Anderson House

The Institute's temporary exhibitions at our Anderson House headquarters offer intimate and compelling looks at the history of the Revolution through authentic works of art, artifacts and documents. Exploring themes related to the cause for American independence, the people and events of the war and the Society of the Cincinnati, these exhibitions—and the lessons they inspire—contribute to our understanding and appreciation of the Revolution and its legacy.

REVOLUTIONARY EXHIBITIONS

Our Mission in Education

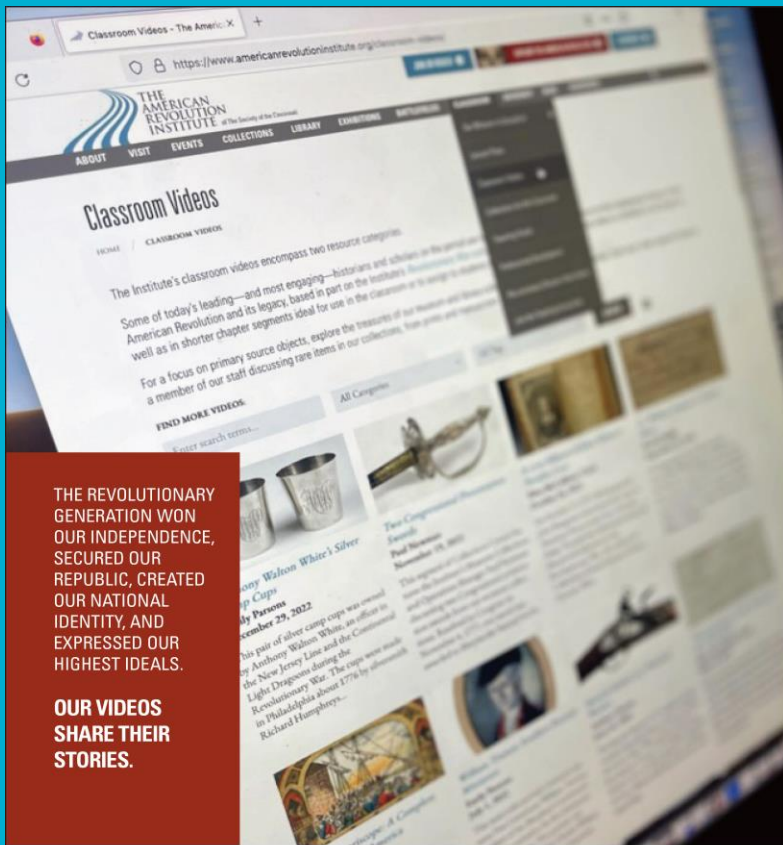

Lesson Plans

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/lesson-plans/>

Classroom Videos

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/classroom-videos/>

THE REVOLUTIONARY GENERATION WON OUR INDEPENDENCE, SECURED OUR REPUBLIC, CREATED OUR NATIONAL IDENTITY, AND EXPRESSED OUR HIGHEST IDEALS.

OUR VIDEOS SHARE THEIR STORIES.

www.AmericanRevolutionInstitute.org

The Critical Time After Yorktown
William M. Fowler, Jr.
Professor of History, Northeastern University
April 5, 2013
00:43:39

Many people assume that the Revolutionary War ended with the surrender of the British army at Yorktown in October 1781. In fact, the war continued for two more traumatic years. During that time, the Revolution came as close to being lost as any time in the preceding six years. When Congress failed to pay the army, rumors of mutiny roiled through the ranks, culminating in George Washington's legendary address to his officers in Newburgh, New York, on March 15, 1783. Professor Fowler chronicles the events of the last two years of the war and discusses how Washington saved the republic.

Part 1 of 8: The Revolutionary War After Yorktown \(6:51\)

Part 2 of 8: War on the Hudson: The Continental Army in Newburgh \(8:46\)

"A Republic, If You Can Keep It"

James Madison Fellows Workshop,
American Revolution Institute
Washington, D.C.
June 2022

George Washington at War: From Soldier to Commander in Chief

George Washington Teacher Workshop,
American Revolution Institute
Washington, D.C.
June 2022

Why the A Matters

Memphis Sch
Professional E
virtual
January 2022

Collections for the Classroom: George Washington: From Soldier to Commander in Chief

HOME / COLLECTIONS FOR THE CLASSROOM / COLLECTIONS FOR THE CLASSROOM: GEORGE WASHINGTON: FROM SOLDIER TO COMMANDER IN CHIEF

George Washington Teacher Workshop, American Revolution Institute

virtual
July 8, 2021

George Washington subscribed (literally and figuratively) to the aims of the Society of the Cincinnati as they were outlined in its Institution, and he was president general from its inception until his death. Those aims, which were Washington's aims as well as the aims of the Society, included perpetuating the fellowship of the officers of the Continental Army and Navy, perpetuating the memory of the achievement of American independence, and advocating for justice to be done for veteran officers.

These collection items were selected for a workshop with teachers participating in the first virtual George Washington Teacher Ins "George Washington: From Soldier to Commander in Chief" with scholar Sarah Purcell.

Collections for the Classroom

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/collections-for-the-classroom/>

Continental Army & Revolutionary War at Sea Traveling Trunks

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/traveling-trunks/>

Teacher Programs

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/professional-development/>

- ★ Bill of Rights Institute Workshop—WDC (June)
- ★ Master Teachers Seminar—WDC (July)
- ★ Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge Workshop—WDC (August)
- ★ FL Council for History Education Conference—St. Augustine, FL (July)
- ★ SC Council for the Social Studies Conference—Greenville, SC (September)
- ★ VA Teacher Workshop—Lorton, VA (November)
- ★ National Council for the Social Studies Conference—Nashville, TN (December)
- ★ VA Council for the Social Studies Conference—Farmville, VA (March)
- ★ National Council for History Education Conference—Cleveland, OH (March)

Revolutionary Choices Online Strategy Game

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/revolutionary-choices-game/>

Teaching Associates Program

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/teaching-associates/>

THE
AMERICAN REVOLUTION
INSTITUTE
of The Society of the Cincinnati

James

Student Programs

Why the American Revolution Matters

Posted February 18, 2019 / Basic Principles, History Education, The Legacy of the Revolution

The American Revolution was shaped by high principles and low ones, by imperial politics, dynastic rivalries, ambition, greed, personal loyalties, patriotism, demographic growth, social and economic changes, cultural developments, British intransigence, and American anxieties. It was shaped by conflicting interests between Britain and America, between regions within America, between families and

<https://www.americanrevolutioninstitute.org/why-the-american-revolution-matters/>

“The revolutionary generation did not complete the work of creating a truly free society, which requires overcoming layers of social injustice, exploitation, and other forms of institutionalized oppression that have accumulated over many centuries, as well as eliminating the ignorance, bigotry, and greed that support them. One of the fundamental challenges of a political order based on principles of universal right is that it empowers ignorant, bigoted, callous, selfish, and greedy people in the same way it empowers the wise and virtuous. For this reason, political progress in free societies can be painfully, frustratingly slow, with periods of energetic change interspersed with periods of inaction or even retreat. The wisest of our Revolutionaries understood this, and anticipated that creating a truly free society would take many generations. The flaw lies not in our Revolutionary beginnings or our Revolutionary ideals, but in human nature. Perseverance alone is the answer.”

—Why the American Revolution Matters